The Exalted Ruler's Message

We are now in the peak of foliage season. We returned from the Elks Cruise in the Caribbean to the colors of the season. There were twenty people in the group. The cruise line will be sending a contribution to our lodge for Silver Towers. We had a few Elks members in our groups; Randy and Marcia Corey, Brian and Linda Lander, Dan Brady, Dave and Linda Eaton and Sally and I. We had to dodge the hurricane on the way back, but the captain found a safe route to return by.

Our lodge hosted a dinner for Grand Exalted Ruler, Ronald Hicks and First Lady Nancy. This event was attended by about ninety people. There are pictures of the event in this bulletin. Also attending was our State sponsor David Carr and wife, Penny and Special Deputy/Grand Tiler, Earl Cavanaugh and wife, Nancy. The next morning State Elks President, Fred Dusablon and wife, Beth and I, had breakfast with them before their trip to New Hampshire.

Our Friday nights are doing quite well. We have bands playing every other week. We are coming up on our first year of Friday night meals.

We are planning a light lunch for Veterans Day on Wednesday the 11th. Please call the lodge to make reservations for this lunch.

We will have the outdoor lighting of the lodge on Friday the 27th at 6:00 pm following this will be music by DJ, Sally Blair. She will play your request and karaoke until 9:00 pm. Come on out and enjoy the evening.

I would like to mention a few key dates for December:

December 6th Memorial Day Service
December 12th, Lodge Holiday Dinner Dance
December 31st, New Year's Dinner Dance.

Our lodge hosted the Mid-year convention. State President, Fred Dusablon presided over the event with the state officers. This was attended by about seventy members from the twelve lodges in the state.

I hope everyone is having a good fall and in good health. Please stop by the lodge to see what is going on.

Regards,

Wes Blair

Interlodge Activities

This is an early reminder of B.P.O.E. #916's Interlodge Activities coming in January 2016. We want to be sure that we have a good participation by all lodge members who want to compete in Interlodge.

For members who are not familiar with this event, it is just a casual, fun competition between all the state lodges in the following sporting events:

Pool	2 ea.	2	person teams
Darts	2 ea.	2	" "
Shuffleboard	2 ea.	2	" "
Cribbage	4 ea.	2	" "
Bowling	2 ea.	5	" "

All members are welcome to try out for the lodge teams no matter what your skill level is. This is a fun event, so if you would like to come out and enjoy a day with fellow Elk members, we'd love to see you.

As of this printing these are the dates for the competition:

Playoffs against the other Northern Elks Lodges: Jan. 23, 2016 at the Barre Elks Lodge. State finals at our own Burlington Lodge, Feb. 20, 2016.

Winning teams from the Northern competition go against winners from the Southern Elks Lodges. Contrary to past rumors, even if you can't make both dates still feel free to try out. If your team makes it to the finals we have Elks members that can substitute. For our own lodge teams, if we have more members signed up than needed, we will have qualifying rounds in January before the Northern date. Date TBA.

Sign up sheets for the teams should be posted in the Members bar early in Dec. 2015. Reminders will be out in future bulletins.

Board of Directors Report

Board of Directors meetings (2nd Tuesday of the month in the upstairs conference room) . All members are welcome to attend and voice ideas of concerns.

Here are some notes on happenings at Burlington Lodge #916.

1. The second floor Conference room has been re-dedicated to the memory of Gerritt Crowley, a great Elk whom we will sorely miss. Gerritt was and is an inspiring example in his generosity to all, in his commitment to his family and to the charitable missions of our Lodge.

2. The Board has decided that we will offer soup and cold-cuts sandwiches on Mondays instead of opening late as was mentioned in last month's Bulletin. This is a new initiative and we hope it will go well.

3. The Board is pleased to announce the promotion of our kitchen assistant cook Zach to line cook in recognition of his increased level of responsibility and his loyalty to our Lodge. Go Zach!!.

4. Outside Trustee John Fitzpatrick recently arranged with BED to correct a problem with loose wires in the parking lot near the trash bins at no expense to the Lodge. This addresses a safety issue for the Lodge -thanks, Fitzy!

5. On a less pleasant note we ask that all individuals using the back lawn as a dog park please clean up if "deposits" have been made. This is a public health issue.

Your Board continues to keep the membership as informed as we possibly can. Please call, write, email, text or come and see us at a meeting. We need and would love to have your ideas, opinions and concerns. Stay tuned for monthly updates from your Board of Directors.

Elks Memorial Service

Sunday, December 6, 2015
1:00 PM

"The faults of our Members we write upon the sand, their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory."

The first Sunday in December is dedicated to the memory of our departed Elks Members. In keeping with this beautiful tradition, we will hold our annual Elks Memorial Day Service on Sunday, December 6th at 1 pm. The families of our departed members will be attending as we memorialize their loved ones by lighting individual candles in their memory, and calling out their names.

It is fitting that we as Elks, in the brotherhood of Elkdom, honor those gone before us as "Elks are never forgotten, never forsaken". Exalted Ruler, Wes Blair and the Lodge Officers will be conducting a special ceremony along with the Green Mt. Chorus, and representatives from the 158 Fighter Wing (USAF) as we remember, each in our own way, the warm smile, the reassuring look, and the comfortable touch of those we held dear. This service is open to the public and all members and guests are encouraged to attend. A complimentary buffet luncheon will follow the ceremony. Please join us as we honor our deceased Elks brothers and sisters.

THE GRAND EXALTED RULER OF THE BENEVOLENT AND PROTECTIVE ORDER OF ELKS VISITS VT

(Vermont Elks Association Report)

The Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks Ronald Hicks and his wife, first lady Nancy visited Vermont as part of their tour of the Northeastern states. Ron and Nancy were met in Massachusetts by Grand Tiler and Special Deputy for the Grand Exalted Ruler Earl Cavanaugh, his wife Nancy, Past Grand Exalted Ruler and Grand Lodge Sponsor of Vermont David Carr and his wife Penny.

The group stopped at Barre Elks Lodge, home Lodge of Vermont Elks Association Vice President Robert Campo for a light lunch. Exalted Ruler Stacy Holden and DDGER North Chip Paine gave Ron a tour of the Lodge highlighting the Lodge's unique granite memorial tablets.

Next on the whirlwind tour was a visit to the Ben & Jerry's factory in Waterbury, Vermont. Unfortunately due to time constraints, Earl only allowed a few pictures in front of the building; no waiting in line for ice cream!!

Later in the evening, Burlington Elks Lodge, home of Vermont Elks Association President Fred Dusablon, hosted a dinner and reception for Ron and Nancy. Elks from ten of the states twelve Lodges attended. Fred presented Ron with a granite clock made from Barre gray granite, mined from E.L. Smith Quarry located in Barre, Vermont. Nancy was given a Vermont Teddy Bear complete with an apple pie. DDGER North Chip Paine presented Ron with a $100 donation to Elks National Foundation. DDGER South Frank Lopez presented Ron with a $100 donation to Silver Towers Camp, the state major project.
Ron gave a rousing speech about the first impression new members receive during orientation and how a thoughtful, well performed Ritual captures the attention and appreciation of members. Finally, he asked that all Elks strengthen their community focus; "By strengthening our 'Community Focus' and our presence in the Community, we have the opportunity to put a face on our Lodge, as we introduce our friends and neighbors to our good works and the Pride that comes with being an Elk."

At the end of the evening, Ron was gracious enough to sign membership cards for those in attendance. Vermont Elks members raised two hundred and seventy seven dollars for Elks National Foundation as a thank you for the signing of membership cards.

The Best Scholarship I Never Got

By: Lolita Parker, Jr.

In 1986, I returned to college as a single mother of two pre-school aged children. My father had recently passed, and I knew he was disappointed that I had never finished college. I spent my primary school years as an "army brat" or military dependent, first following my father's Navy and then my stepfather's Army service, attending twelve different schools during that time.

Without going into too many details, my childhood had been marked by multiple forms of long-term abuse. As a teen, I had learned about generational cycles of abuse and resolved to do everything I could to break free from that legacy. Time and again, I stumbled, fell and then picked myself up.

By my second year of a photojournalism program at Pasadena City College. I thrived in the academic environment and I was encouraged by professors to keep a look out for scholarships.

I found one in particular called the National Elks Foundation Scholarship, and its $2000 award was very substantial for the time - the equivalent of four months rent. Ever a researcher, I went to the library to see what I could find out about the Elks. I can still remember climbing a ladder to the top of the stacks to pull out a thick green volume of onion-skin pages. This was my first introduction to the Elks, but the paragraph I read about the Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks of the United States of America made me think, and think deeply: "What do I stand for? What are my beliefs?"

Even in 1988, I had already come to realize that despite getting up and working hard every day, there was still not enough money to go around. After basic bills, childcare, transportation and housing costs, I started to understand the promise of picking yourself up by your bootstraps was tougher than it sounded. One particularly rude awakening, was arriving at my son's babysitter's house early one day and finding her swamped with 30 wailing children wall-to-wall in her tiny home. The largely unregulated child-care industry of the 1980's was but one example of the plight of the working poor that led me, reluctantly and with a heavy heart, toward taking public assistance. I had done some serious soul-searching, but alone with two children, I swallowed my embarrassment and took the only chance I could see to make a better opportunity for myself and my children's future.

As I sat down to write my scholarship essay, I decided to lay bare this internal dilemma and to tell the truth, for it was all I had that was mine. Unwittingly or not , the Elks Scholarship essay resolved me to be even more determined to break the generational cycles of abuse and with no support as an unmarried mother of two, to do so with whatever assistance was available, (however politically unpopular it was at the time).

Needless to say, the day the acceptance letter came I was ecstatic. Writing my essay had driven me to think deeply about my values, about what was important to me and why. At the time I did not understand its significance, but the Elks Scholarship process was akin to forming a personal mission statement that would shape the next two decades of my life.

Over the years I have told and retold this story recounting its importance in determining my life's trajectory. An irony of the actual prize was that, between the time I applied for the scholarship and my award letter, the introspection it inspired pushed me to change the direction of my studies. On a fluke, I applied to the University of Southern California's Film School and was accepted. The Elks scholarship was earmarked for students attending a vocational college and my chosen program at USC was not eligible.

Just a few weeks ago, I was in Bellows Falls, VT attending Vermont Academy's alumni weekend with my daughter and son. As I was checking into our motel, the manager asked me if I was with a group from the Vermont Chapter of National Elks. It had been years since I'd thought of the scholarship and essay, but still the researcher, I looked up the Vermont Elks and quickly browsed their website as soon as I got back to my computer.

Stepping back out of my room, I turned around to find I was face-to-face with the Vermont Elks Association President, Fred Dusablon. I'm sure he was taken aback when I excitedly yelled "I just saw your picture on the internet!" But once I explained I was a past Elk's Scholarship recipient, I was welcomed, in typical Elks fashion, with a rousing applause, a congratulatory handshake and hearty embrace from him and his associates.

I was honored when Mr. Dusablon invited me the Bellows Falls Lodge for dinner and of course I could not refuse an invitation to speak to the group, especially following the poignant words of Frank Lopez, DDGER-South, about increasing the Elks' visibility to the public at large. As I took the podium, my sentiments came tumbling out in a rush, though when I looked out at the kind and smiling faces before me, I was immediately taken back to that ecstatic feeling of accomplishment, acceptance and determination when I received the award letter years ago. Leaving the hall, I was overwhelmed by the uproarious clapping and heartfelt hugs of the lodge and its members. A few people had tears in their eyes and so did I. It was such a moving moment to finally personally thank some of those who had so helped me in my youth. And though I was never to receive the Elks Scholarship, the entire process inspired me to continue to stand firm on my chosen path. It was the best scholarship I never got.

About the author: Lolita Parker, Jr. is a Boston-based freelance photographer, oral historian and documentary filmmaker. Her children are educators in the Boston Public Schools. Parker's family has a long tradition of military service dating back to her great-grandfather who served in the US Colored Troops (USCT) in the Civil War; to her great-uncles who served in WWI; her father (Army Air Corps, Navy), aunt (WAVES) and uncle (Army) who all served in WWII; her partner who is a Vietnam Era Navy Veteran; and her nephew who served two tours in Iraq as a Marine.
