Weight loss surgery is generally designed for those with a body mass index (BMI) equal to or greater than 40, or equal to or greater than 35 with serious co-morbidities. Laparoscopic adjustable gastric banding with the Lap Band® is also FDA-approved for weight loss surgery in people with a BMI of 30 to 35 who have at least one obesity-related condition. Weight loss surgery is considered safe, but like many types of surgery, it does have risks. Consult with your physician about the risks and benefits of weight loss surgery.

TIM TALK

By TIM HUNT

Remembering Steve McRee

Shepherd's Gate lost its long-time leader Tuesday morning when CEO Steve McRee died suddenly when his heart failed. He was 65.

Steve was a dear friend — one of my A-list friends that I have walked beside for 20 years. That included service on the Shepherd's Gate board and lots of time together since he suffered a catastrophic fall on Dec. 23, 2013. He was initially paralyzed, but after his wife Carla prayed in the emergency room, he could move his arms.

Steve McRee

He made a slow and steady recovery, surprising the medical folks with how far he had come. During the last three years, he continued to lead the ministry. He was determined to use the golf ball that had arrived in the mail when he arrived home after weeks in the hospital. I was ready to join him on that tee.

Surprisingly, after a hospitalization for an infection that seemed under control, God took him home. It was shockingly quick, but we can rejoice knowing that he's running, dancing and celebrating with Jesus in Heaven.

As another dear friend said, anytime you were around Steve, you knew about Jesus.

Steve and Carla ran Shepherd's Gate for more than 20 years, and God used them to take the ministry to new levels. When they arrived, the ministry was a 30-day emergency shelter in the old home on Portola Avenue in Livermore where Alice Ann Cantelow founded the shelter for women and their children.

Steve told the story many times about how he had thought he would never move to California or run a women's shelter — he learned as have I; never say never to God.

The board had its eye on a property across the street. Over the next few years, God opened the doors so the residence hall and the office were built. HomeAid, which earlier had turned Shepherd's Gate away, then stepped up and built the second residence hall and the cottages for women who were ready to leave the program. The organization, which is the charitable arm of the Northern California Homebuilders Association, stepped up a final time and completed the long-delayed Life Center last year.

In addition, another builder, Signature Homes, approached Steve about building a turn-key shelter in Brentwood instead of contributing to affordable housing. Steve told them yes, if there was no government money involved. Signature had planned to tap some government funds, but followed Steve's request. Shepherd's Gate never has taken government money.

Steve and God had a straight forward agreement. Steve was to minister to the people that God sent to him, and God would take care of the financial resources. Over the 20 years, there were many times when the financial situation appeared dire and then a check or checks would show up in the mail to cover the gap.

We met the first time when he came to my newspaper office seeking a sponsorship for the golf tournament. We spent two hours-plus talking about God and life and then, as he was about to leave, we got around to golf. That was the start of a dear friendship.

Through Steve and Shepherd's Gate, I was introduced to the charismatic branch of Christianity. I have seen miracles and been privileged to be used in a few. God's anointing on Shepherd's Gate is so strong that miracles are common on the campus — broken limbs have been healed and cancer has vanished.

God used Shepherd's Gate, Steve and the people he connected me with to train me for leadership with Heart for Africa and other faith-based nonprofits. Today, there are more than 150 children living on Project Canaan in Swaziland because of what God taught me through Shepherd's Gate and Steve's brothers and sisters in Christ.

His legacy is being lived out daily by the women and children God used Shepherd's Gate to change during his tenure. He did, as it reads at the Livermore campus, bring glory to God. ■

ASKED AROUND TOWN

Is there anything you think people should not be posting all over social media?

Mark Nomura

Handyman

Oh yes, for sure. I don’t think people should be spouting their political beliefs and opinions all over the place. It’s fine to feel passionately about your politics, but it’s wrong to use social media to ram them down everyone else’s throats.

Elaine Dexter

Racquetball coach/program director

Definitely. I stay off most social media because I can’t stand seeing people’s reposts of someone else’s thoughts and impressions. Boring. I also don’t like all of the political posts and the negativity and bashing that people post all over. Social media sites should just be used for sharing useful information and photographs that help family and friends keep in touch with one another.

Len Sanchez

Retired

For sure. I don’t think people should be posting about their personal lives and relationship problems. People should talk to their close friends about that rather than seeking attention from a much wider base on their social media platforms.

David Horn

Professional racquetball player

Ranting and complaining. I feel that those who take to social media to rant and complain about their problems would be so much better off spending their time trying to actually fix what is wrong in their lives, instead of using social media to complain about it.

Michael Bedard

CFO

I think it is wrong to discuss work-related problems and issues on social media because it will inevitably get back to coworkers and the employer. I’ve counseled people against this in the past, but it has always been to no avail.

County celebrates Women's Hall of Fame inductees at Pleasanton ceremony

Hundreds turn out to fairgrounds to honor this year's 12 recipients

By JEREMY WALSH

Some 500 people gathered in Building B at the fairgrounds in Pleasanton last weekend to recognize 12 female leaders from throughout the county as they were inducted into the 2017 class of the Alameda County Women's Hall of Fame.

The honorees last Saturday were singled out for their impact, influence and inspiration across individual fields such as business, philanthropy, education, justice, environment and youth.

"Our inductees this year bring a multitude of uplifting stories that inspire pride and bring us hope in these uncertain times," Alameda County Administrator Susan S. Muranishi, co-chair of the Women's Hall of Fame, said in a statement.

"It is an honor to be able to celebrate the achievements of each of these amazing women," added Dr. Stacy Thompson, chair of Alameda County's Commission on the Status of Women. "Their stories inspire us to do what we can to make Alameda County a better place."

Hosted by the commission and the county's Board of Supervisors, the 24th annual Women's Hall of Fame luncheon helped raise funds for local nonprofits serving women and families in the county and for scholarships to support local girls' academic pursuits — in addition to sharing the stories of the 12 inductees.

The honorees included Catherine (Suárez) Dunbar, a Livermore resident who teaches Spanish at Las Positas College and educates and empowers people inside and outside of the classroom, according to county officials.

This year's recipient in the Education category, she also co-created a self-esteem program for Latina girls, produced the La Semena Cubana cultural event and launched a nonprofit providing food and other necessities to Tri-Valley residents and communities in Cuba and Mexico.

The class of 2017 also featured:

- Linda Mandolini, president of Hayward-based Eden Housing Inc.; Business and Professions category.
- Suzan Bateson, executive director of the Alameda County Community Food Bank; Community Service.
- Ayodele Nzinga, a longtime leader in the East Bay theater community;

Produce stand for Sunflower Hill

Pleasanton Scout's Eagle project benefits local nonprofit

Sunflower Hill Gardens growers can now display the fruits of their labor — and the vegetables, too — in a more marquee and sustainable way thanks to Hart Middle School's Max McGee.

The Pleasanton 14-year-old visited the one-acre garden at Hagemann Ranch in Livermore, which provides vocational and horticulture training for people with special needs, and found new inspiration for his Eagle Scout project when he saw garden volunteers selling their produce on portable tables.

Nearly six months later, McGee's sturdy, portable produce stand — measuring 3 feet by 6 feet by 7 feet — was installed at the nonprofit's garden on Olivina Road.

"This project was important to me because I could see how Sunflower Hill could benefit from it. I think what Sunflower Hill does for our community is very important, and I'm proud to be able to help," McGee, a member of Boy Scouts Troop 945, said in a statement before the dedication last month.

The produce stand meets several key needs, according to Lynn Monica, director of Sunflower Hill Gardens. "It's great that Max designed this as a portable stand. It's sturdy and durable yet flexible enough that we can take it on the road," she said.

"The timing is perfect," Monica added. "We're harvesting our winter crops right now, and our spring planting is set for April 22 (Earth Day) at the garden."

Currently, Swiss chard, radishes, broccoli rabe and broccoli is available for purchase at the produce stand on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Last year, the nonprofit's volunteer garden produced more than 9,600 pounds of vegetables and fruits, more than 70% of which was donated to local food banks and shelters.

McGee's produce stand arrived during a busy month for Sunflower Hill.

The Pleasanton-based nonprofit also received a $1,200 donation check from Visit Tri-Valley from its "Spread Cheer with Beer" fundraising drive.

And it earned approval from the Livermore City Council for a 44-unit housing community for adults with developmental delays on a 2.2-acre parcel on First Street in Livermore across from Safeway and Lowe's Home Improvement.

The affordable housing project, being built by developer MidPen Housing Corp., would also feature a dining hall, fitness and game rooms, a therapeutic pool, bocce court and other amenities, under the proposal. ■

Sister city summer exchange program

Local high-schoolers can apply through April 15

The Pleasanton-Tulancingo Sister City Association is looking for local high school students interested in serving as community ambassadors as part of the organization's annual summer exchange program.

A staple in the community for more than 30 years, the program is open to all high-schoolers in Pleasanton and the rest of the Tri-Valley who have the equivalent of two years of Spanish language skills. The deadline to apply is coming up on April 15.

"Students come back enriched by their experiences in many ways, including improved ability to speak and understand Spanish, eyes opened to another culture in a safe and supportive family environment, and a growth in confidence and maturity," association spokesperson Margo Tarver said in a statement.

The cultural exchange involves Pleasanton participants hosting a Mexican student in their homes from June 18 to July 9, and then the Pleasanton students are hosted by families in the sister city of Tulancingo, Mexico from July 9-30.

Community mourns death of Amador student

Pleasanton students and school staff entered spring break this week with heavy hearts after an Amador Valley High freshman died unexpectedly last week.

The school district provided support to students at Amador Valley last week as well as at the school on Monday and Wednesday of this week during spring break, making grief counselors and other support available, according to district spokesperson Patrick Gannon.

"This is a devastating loss to our school community," Gannon said. "At this time, we are respecting the privacy of our student's family as they grieve this incredible loss. Support is available to all of our students and staff at our school sites as we all work to get through this very difficult time."

Amador Valley principal Mike Williams also expressed his condolences and support for students in an email to families announcing the death last week.

"It is incredibly difficult to face the loss of one of our students. It is important now more than ever that we reach out to support one another," he told the families. ■

Former Contra Costa schools superintendent Joseph Ovick dies

BY JEREMY WALSH

Joseph A. Ovick, Ed.D., who served for nearly two decades as Contra Costa County's superintendent of schools until retiring in 2014, died unexpectedly last week, according to county officials. He was 69.

Ovick worked in education for 45 years, beginning his career in Santa Clara County before joining the Contra Costa County Office of Education as director of special education. He rose up the administrative ranks at the Contra Costa office before winning election as the county's superintendent of schools in 1996, a position he held for the next 18 years.

"Dr. Ovick was a true champion of students and schools during his 45 years as an educator," current county Superintendent of Schools Karen Sakata said in a statement. "He was a wonderful friend and mentor to me, beginning back in our early days working in Santa Clara County. This is truly a sad day for our agency, our county and the education community."

The cause of Ovick's death on March 30 wasn't immediately released. Memorial service details are pending.

County education officials remembered the Brentwood resident as having developed strong coalitions of educators, community members and legislators to support public schools. Ovick also focused on maintaining a presence in schools throughout the county, making a point to visit classrooms often, they added.

"Joe personified what the county Office of Education stood for in regards to support for schools and school districts in Contra Costa County. He was public education's biggest advocate, and he will be sorely missed," said Terry Koehne, chief communications officer for the county education office.

Ovick's career began as a special education teacher in Santa Clara County before he moved into administration in that county as an assistant principal and then principal and ultimately director of special education.

He later moved to the Contra Costa County Office of Education, where he worked as director of special education, assistant superintendent for student services and associate superintendent for business.

Ovick began his 18-year run as the elected leader of Contra Costa County schools in 1996.

The county's Board of Education singled out Ovick's dedication to local students in 2008 by dedicating the Office of Education's community school in Brentwood as the Joseph A. Ovick School, commending his longtime advocacy for addressing the needs of all students, especially those who are at risk or have special needs.

Ovick also taught at Chapman University's Graduate School of Education and San Jose State University for years, with a curriculum emphasis on school law, finance and leadership.

He served on the Board of Directors of the East Bay Leadership Council and the Contra Costa County Children and Families Policy Forum. In 2012, he served as president of the California County Superintendents Educational Services Association, and he continued to serve on its executive board after his retirement in 2014.

He also held leadership roles on the Bay Area Leadership Foundation, the Federal Policy & Legislation Committee for the Council of Administrators for Special Education, the Federal Advocacy for California Education, the Association of California School Administrators (ACSA) Region 6 and the Bay Area Region Superintendents Association.

During his career, Ovick received a variety of education awards, including the President's Circle Award for outstanding service to education and the community from the Diablo Valley College Foundation, and the Government Service Award in recognition of outstanding community service from then-Congressman George Miller.

Ovick was named Citizen of the Year by the East Bay Leadership Foundation in 2008, the Superintendent of the Year by the ACSA Region 6 in 2006 and the Ferd Kiesel Memorial Distinguished Service Award winner from the ACSA Region 6 in 2010. ■

Symphony offering ‘Transfigurations’

Schubert, Richard Strauss, Wagner, Tchaikovsky on the program

By PATRICIA BOYLE

Livermore-Amador Symphony continues its 54th regular season with “Transfigurations” this Saturday at the Bankhead Theater in Livermore.

Symphony music director Lara Webber will turn over her baton for the evening to guest conductor Matilda Hofman, who is music director of the Diablo Symphony in Walnut Creek.

The concert will open with Schubert’s “Rosamunde” Overture, which begins with a slow and dramatic opening before the rhythm picks up with a bright, lively theme and builds to a rousing finish.

The concert continues with Richard Strauss’ “Death and Transfiguration.”

“This is an extraordinary work, especially when bearing in mind it was written by a 25-year-old,” Hofman said. “Despite being 25 years old when he wrote it, Strauss imagines himself as an old man near death, reflecting on a life of struggles.

“The work is a complex web of symbolic leitmotifs,” she continued. “It starts with somber colors, using pulsating strings, timpani and very low chords in the winds and brass, reflecting a man near death. Soon the music turns to memories of the man’s life — with themes of romance, struggle and heroism.

“The moment of death is represented by a rising chromatic scale in the woodwinds which dissipates into thin air. An extended and incredibly beautiful final section with very long melodic lines represents Strauss’ imagination of the transfiguration of the soul.”

After intermission, Wagner’s “Lohengrin” Prelude to Act 1 and Tchaikovsky’s “Swan Lake” Suite complete the program.

“Both these works are in some way inspired by the wild and untamable beauty of the swan,” Hofman explained. “Wagner’s patron Ludwig II of Bavaria named his castle after the knight of the swan in Lohengrin. Wagner’s prelude to Lohengrin is his music at its most distilled, most gleaming and calm, representing the godly realm that the swan prince inhabits and represents.”

She added that Tchaikovsky was fascinated by the tragic life of Ludwig II, marked by the symbol of the swan.

“The opening prelude of the (Swan Lake) suite is portentous and full of the melancholy and ominous colors of the oboe and trombones,” Hofman said. “The suite also contains the colorful, national dances that were typical in these ballets.”

Hofman studied at Cambridge University, the Royal Academy of Music and the Eastman School of

MTC: Testing signs for I-680 express lanes ahead of summer opening

Agency also announces plans for future express lane to Benicia Bridge by 2020

By JEREMY WALSH

Drivers along Interstate 680 north of Pleasanton may have noticed messages appearing last week on the new toll signs for the future express lanes.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) has started testing the signage on northbound I-680 from Alcosta Boulevard to Crow Canyon Road, and if the tests prove successful, the test messages will move to other areas of the express lanes corridor through the end of this month.

MTC officials have reminded drivers that the messages -- which include dots, toll price amounts and notifications such as "TEST 1 - NO TOLLS" or "TEST MESSAGE 2" -- are just tests and vehicles are not being tolled yet. All signs also have static "Under Construction" stickers.

The express lanes, which will run between near the Alamo-Walnut Creek border and the San Ramon-Dublin border, are now scheduled to open some time this summer, according to the MTC. When construction started in August 2015, the project was expected to open in late 2016, weather permitting.

The San Ramon Valley project aims to improve traffic congestion, but MTC officials said this month that these express lanes "are expected to improve traffic conditions in the shoulders of the peak commute hour, but likely will have only a modest impact on congestion during the heaviest travel times."

Their overarching goal is to complete two other projects aimed at creating express lanes on I-680 most of the way from Alcosta Boulevard to the Benicia-Martinez

Bridge to help deliver more congestion relief throughout the freeway.

The estimated $45 million San Ramon Valley project involves converting existing high-occupancy vehicle (HOV) lanes into toll express lanes across approximately 23 miles overall. The express lanes will run on southbound I-680 from Rudgear Road to Alcosta Boulevard and on northbound I-680 from Alcosta to Livorna Road in Alamo.

The express lanes will be free to access for carpools, vanpools, public transit, motorcycles and eligible clean-air vehicles while other solo-occupant vehicles could pay a toll to use the lanes from 5 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays.

Motorists will need to obtain a FasTrak Flex toll tag in advance of the opening in order to use the express lanes. The FasTrak Flex reader offers adjustable settings based on one, two or three-plus vehicle occupants, allowing carpools to not be charged the toll while driving in the lanes.

The MTC last week also confirmed its plan is to create an express lane for southbound I-680 from the Benicia-Martinez Bridge to Rudgear Road by 2020, setting up a continuous express lane from the bridge to Alcosta.

The agency also plans to add a new I-680 northbound express lane from North Main Street in Walnut Creek to the bridge, although a timetable and funding sources are not yet determined. Northbound I-680 would have a gap with no express lane between North Main and Livorna, but officials said they are looking at "operational improvements," such as additional transit, to relieve bottlenecks there. ■

These express lanes ... 'likely will have only a modest impact on congestion during the heaviest travel times.'

POLICE BULLETIN

PPD announces promotions, new hires

The Pleasanton Police Department recently celebrated two promotions and welcomed two Tri-Valley natives as its newest officers with a special badge pinning and oath of office ceremony.

Larry Cox was promoted to the rank of police lieutenant from sergeant, and Jason Knight was promoted from officer to sergeant.

Cox joined Pleasanton police in 2001 and has served as a detective, field training officer, patrol officer, and personnel and training officer. In 2014 he was promoted to police sergeant, and he has most recently served as the criminal investigations supervisor for the department.

Lt. Cox has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice management and is currently pursuing a master's in public administration and leadership.

Sgt. Knight has been with the department since 2004, currently serving as the personnel and training officer. He has previously worked as a D.A.R.E. officer, school resource officer, terrorism liaison officer, bicycle officer and field training officer. Knight has a bachelor's degree from University of California, Davis and a master's degree in public administration from California State University, East Bay.

Two new police officers were also sworn in — Sam Akacsos and Brian Jewell. Both were hired as recruits in August, and on March 14 they graduated from the Alameda County Sheriff's Office Regional Training Center.

Akacsos was born and raised in Pleasanton and graduated from Foothill High. He earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from the University of Nevada, Reno.

Jewell is a Livermore native and graduate of Livermore High. He has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from California State University, Sacramento.

Akacsos and Jewell will undergo a 16-week field training process before being assigned to patrol the city as solo officers, according to the department.

In other police news

- A man killed last week in a crash on the westbound entrance to the Dumbarton Bridge near Fremont was identified by the Alameda County coroner's bureau as Terrence Culhane, 64, of Dublin.

Culhane died in a crash that was reported at 11:43 a.m. March 29 on westbound Highway 84 west of the bridge's toll plaza, California Highway Patrol officials said.

Culhane was driving a 2003 Hyundai when he attempted to pass a big-rig. As he was passing the truck on its left side, his Hyundai veered toward the center divider wall.

He overcorrected and veered sharply to the right, crashing into a metal guardrail and causing the vehicle to overturn several times until it came to rest on its roof, according to the CHP.

- Pleasanton police arrested a San Jose man on suspicion of theft-related offenses after allegedly being found with property stolen from cars parked near downtown Pleasanton early Tuesday morning.

Steven Michael Fox, 27, was booked into jail on suspicion of theft from a vehicle, possession of stolen property and possessing a stolen vehicle, according to Sgt. Erik Silacci.

The investigation began around 2:30 a.m. Tuesday when officers responded to the 500 block of St. John Street after a witness reported seeing a strange man inside his neighbor's car, Silacci said.

Officers arrived and soon contacted a man, later identified as Fox, whom they saw walking out of the backyard of a home on nearby Peters Avenue, according to the sergeant.

Silacci alleged Fox matched the witness's description and was positively identified in an in-field lineup. An initial investigation determined numerous vehicles were broken into early Tuesday morning in the area, according to Silacci, who alleged Fox was found in possession of property stolen from vehicles in the area.

Officers also found a key fob car security device in the area where they initially spotted Fox, according to Silacci. The key fob was reportedly linked to a car that was parked downtown and later determined stolen from Fremont. ■

New school is justified

Janet Yarbrough's March 31 letter incorrectly concluded that Pleasanton school enrollment does not justify a new elementary school.

Every Pleasanton school already exceeds Pleasanton planning guidelines. The Pleasanton General Plan is Pleasanton's planning constitution with enrollment numbers agreed to by the community, city and the school district. PUSD is currently housing students in 115 portables, over 1,000 elementary students alone in portables on PUSD campuses.

PUSD could fill almost two elementary schools before the 2,000 housing units currently being built in Pleasanton are occupied.

PUSD's demographer report is not based on maintaining Pleasanton's identified standards; its projections are based on "if" high enrollments are "acceptable."

PUSD demographic reports have often predicted declining enrollment when in reality hundreds of "unexpected" students show up. Years with less housing development have not been as inaccurate, but the reports from high growth years under-projected district enrollment by hundreds of students.

The current projections use the same failed justification used then, declining birth rates; it was not accurate then and it's not believable now when 2,000 housing units are being built, and much more being discussed.

—Julie Testa

School board should be ashamed

I have been a Pleasanton property owner with public-school-aged kids since 2001. I could not agree more with your March 24, 2017 editorial regarding Rick Rubino.

Even before learning more details (about alleged "harassment" of a female employee), I sensed there was a witch-hunt here not unlike the McCarthy hearings in the 1950s. What have we come to? One employee is "disappointed" and the PUSD hires a law firm to investigate, fires the superintendent, and then all the Pleasanton students have no superintendent for the entire school year.

The board ought to be ashamed of itself.

It should also investigate whether employees who are "disappointed" not only over-react but whose reactions result in unlawful or just plain wrong outcomes — like this one.

It's obvious, as Rubino points out, that the PUSD board paying Rubino his whole year salary is proof of his innocence. In fact, they probably had to do so very fast, because if they did not he would have grounds to sue the district for wrongful termination and for unfairly disparaging his reputation.

I don't know all the details, and I don't know Mr. Rubino, but I know enough now to express solidarity with him, and criticize the board. There are evidently some awful vindictive overly judgmental staff people who work for the district that ought to be rooted out, fast.

The board trustees are just as bad. They are cowardly, lack leadership and every one of them ought to be replaced.

—Richard Bridges

New elementary school is needed

This is a response to Janet Yarbrough's March 31 letter.

Elementary enrollment growth has been masked with portables (leased and owned) rather than building the school(s) students deserved. There are 62 portables housing (at 20:1) at least 1,240 elementary students — the equivalent of two schools.

This year, we overflowed 74 resident students from their home schools; they are not allowed to bump students who transferred in from other districts. A family could move in across the street from Walnut Grove and be transferred across town, and the parents must provide the transportation.

For operational cost concerns, current teachers and students would simply move to a new campus; we are already paying most of the operational costs.

Currently, all elementary schools are at or above the 600 students recommended in the city's General Plan; three are over the 700 students recommended by the district. District demographers predict a need for two more elementary schools (by 2026), even with the portables. If development proceeds faster, those two schools will be needed sooner than predicted.

If the city stopped all development and 1,240 elementary students moved out of Pleasanton, the board would simply declare it does not need the $35 million slated in the bond, the bonds aren't sold, and taxpayers save that expense. Putting that funding in the bond was absolutely in the best interest of this community's children.

There is no question we have needed a new elementary school for many years, and I thank the board members for including this funding.

—Kathleen Rueggesser

Disappointed in school board

As a former teacher and after decades of support for our Pleasanton schools, I am extremely disappointed with recent decisions made by the current school board.

Board president Joan Laursen and interim superintendent Michaela Ochoa presented to the monthly Pleasanton 20/20 Forum data by their demographer that projected enrollment TK through 12th in our schools is expected to decline beginning in 2019.

In spite of these facts, the board has prioritized spending, within the next three to five years, $35 million dollars for a new school. This is more money than for any of the other projects included in our newly passed bond measure.

In addition, the new school's administration cost is estimated at $1 million per year in perpetuity. Currently, 83% of PUSD budget is spent on personnel. The expenditure budgeted for a new school is fiscally unnecessary and irresponsible.

A report by Kenneth R. Stevenson, University of South Carolina in April 2006, cited a study showing there is no relationship between how students performed on the California Achievement Tests in grades one through five and the size of the school. There are similar studies for all grade levels.

Our current school board has too many other issues more closely related to student performance to deal with before building a new school. I ask the school board to more carefully scrutinize how to spend our hard earned tax dollars.

Wellness mantra: EAT RIGHT, MOVE MORE

Pleasanton's Walk to Wellness group is in its seventh year

By DOLORES FOX CIARDELLI

Get moving! This health tip is an oldie but goodie for staying healthy.

Pleasanton's own World Walk to Wellness group is in its seventh year of getting people moving as they meet each Saturday to explore parks and trails in and around the city. The walkers say these outings are good for their mental health, too. And everyone is welcome.

"I, for one, would not go exploring local parks and trails on my own," said Jerri Long, one of the original members. "Over the years and miles, I have enjoyed new friendships developed while we 'walk 'n' talk' together.

"In conversations as we walk, I have learned about geocaching from Larry, horses from Carol and Anne, guitar music from Barbara, and motorized bicycles from Bob and Nancy, to give just a few examples of why the time passes so quickly as we get stress-free exercise."

Michelle Suski likes to bring her grandchildren along on the Saturday morning walks.

"I really love finding ways to get the kids to interact socially that doesn't involve cellphones," Suski said. "The 'walk 'n' talk' is perfect for engaging them in a non-threatening way."

"My granddaughter talked her head off to a complete stranger who was kind and nurturing," she added.

The Pleasanton group was begun in 2011 by W. Ron Sutton, president of ACCUSPLIT, makers of pedometers and stopwatches, who knows about walking — personally and professionally.

"We had been doing a walk for several years before that on New Year's Eve day," Sutton said, "this thing where you were encouraged and motivated to do a New Year's resolution regarding your health."

"The important thing is not so much burning calories as being active for cardiovascular and muscular reasons," he noted. "Eat right and move more."

Proper eating is an equally important part of the equation, Sutton said.

"You can't exercise your way out of a bad diet," he said. "A good diet has to be reasonable, then you drop exercise on top of that, and it maintains a healthy metabolism."

Sutton said that although it may seem like more people are exercising, the sad truth is that the percentage of those who exercise has not changed since the 1950s.

"There was a study in the 1990s that showed walking and healthy lifestyles are good at preventing premature, preventable death," Sutton said. "The sad truth with our population is there is not enough self-prevention."

Sutton also talked about the State of Slim program promoted by James O. Hill, Ph.D., and Holly Wyatt, M.D., at

Solution for a lousy problem

Got lice? Downtown clinic can help

By DOLORES FOX CIARDELLI

When Alina Barukzai, 8, came home from school with head lice last summer, her parents Cindy and Masoud tried everything they could find to get rid of them.

"We tried conventional, over-the-counter techniques and homeopathic techniques," recalled Masoud Barukzai. "But we missed a nit here and there. My son (Zayd, 7) got it, my wife got it, I got it."

They finally heard about an FDA-approved method called AirAllé and found a clinic in the Bay Area where they could go for treatment. Not only were the Barukzai family members finally rid of their head lice, they became advocates of the system.

"The method uses heated air," Barukzai explained. "It essentially dehydrates all of the nits — lice eggs — as well as kills the actual lice. It's healthy, it's green, it's eco-friendly technology, completely pesticide- and toxin-free. And it's a guaranteed treatment in one visit."

"We started researching and decided, our community is very busy, it needs this type of service," Barukzai remembered.

He and Cindy traveled to Boston to become trained and certified in AirAllé, and returned to open their Lice Clinics of America offices on Main Street across from the Pleasanton Hotel in October.

Cindy, who is retired from teaching in Dublin, runs the operation along with three certified staff members. Masoud, who is a firefighter in Sacramento, works there on the days he is off duty.

"Cindy is the main person running the lice removal downtown," Barukzai said. "She has always loved working with kids, and we make sure these kids don't miss school. Cindy is able to, within an hour or an hour-and-a-half, deem kids lice-free."

"We are open seven days a week, before school, after school and on weekends," he added.

After the treatments, children get to choose something out of a gift basket.

"We have had kids as young as 5 and as old as grandma although they are typically between 5 and 12," Barukzai said. "We provide iPads for every child in the clinic and offer organic juices and water."

Barukzai said he would like to get rid of the stigma attached to head lice.

"It doesn't matter if you are poor, if you're rich, you're fat or you're skinny, a man or a woman," he said. "Lice like a healthy head to live on."

People become desperate when their family is infested with head lice, he also noted.

"They will do anything — I have seen traumatized kids doused in mayonnaise, Listerine, vinegar," he said.

The clinic also provides a simple plan Masoud and Cindy have formulated to care for the home after lice are discovered. Bedding and clothing need to be put into the dryer for one hour on high heat. Floors must be vacuumed, and leather couches and cars should be wiped down. Hair ties and miscellaneous small items should be put in a zip lock plastic bag in the freezer for two days.

"There is no more messy melting of brushes — in the past we would boil them," Barukzai said. "A lot of these different things I have learned from my career as a fireman."

He mails out these tips to anyone who inquires, even those who decide to try the over-the-counter cures.

"I recommend against that," he said. "It has pesticides in it, which are extremely toxic to children, and absorbs into the blood stream very quickly."

The Barukzais own the license to treat the greater Tri-Valley area, including from Tracy and Mountain House to Alamo and Orinda. All clients have medical oil applied to the scalp after the hour-long heat treatment.

"We are just so happy to be in our own community to help people," Barukzai said. "It's another way to continue helping people, like my wife teaching and me in my firefighting." ■

Colorectal cancer: A time for action

Colonoscopies no longer the 'dreaded' procedure of yesteryear

By SAMUEL OOMMEN, M.D.

Colorectal cancer is both the nation's second-leading cause of cancer mortality and one of its most preventable cancers. In fact, the American Cancer Society estimates that 134,490 cases of colorectal cancer will have occurred in 2016 and an estimated 49,190 deaths.

Sadly, only about half of the U.S. population over 50 years of age has followed up on recommended screenings and too many cancers are being found in late stages.

Now for some good news. We have the ability to greatly reduce these numbers with the availability of advanced screening technologies, treatment options, and follow-up care.

Colon screenings are vital to finding polyps or cancers at their earliest stages, when they are most treatable. When diagnosed at an earlier stage, these cancers are more likely to be cured and are associated with faster recovery.

So what really matters when it comes to screening for colon cancer?

Certainly, family history matters when it comes to identifying patients who are at increased risk for colon cancer.

Factors to consider in these patients include the number of relatives with colon cancer, the age of the relative when diagnosed, and whether it is a first-degree relative (parents, sibling) or second-degree relative (uncle, aunt, grandparent) who had the diagnosis. The closer the relative (i.e., first-degree relative), the higher the approximate risk of colon cancer.

When should one consider screening?

Sometimes the decision about when to start colon screening is unclear, especially for those that may not know their family history or those with family members who have multiple other cancers. Average risk patients should start screening at age 50, and earlier for those at higher risk. Always best, however, to check with your physician regarding your own unique circumstances and when you should commence screening.

With major advances in technology and in the ease and comfort of patients, colon cancer screenings, namely colonoscopies, are no longer the "dreaded" procedure of yesteryear. Leaving all jokes aside, it really is not a difficult process at all.

We now have better ways of preparing patients that are much easier on their comfort level, and patients genuinely seem to be responding well to the same. In fact, some primary care physicians are telling their patients that a colonoscopy should be a 50th birthday gift to themselves — a potentially life-saving gift.

Colon cancer is a common and deadly disease, yet much of the morbidity and mortality associated with it is certainly preventable with proper screening. Get informed and get screened.

Seniors improve fitness with new program

Creekside Assisted Living opens exercise class to local residents

Creekside Assisted Living in Pleasanton has had good results with residents participating in an onsite fitness program, which is open to any senior living locally.

The program is being run by Live 2 B Healthy. Each participant is given an initial baseline fitness test to assess balance, upper and lower body strength, and stamina. Residents participate twice a week in a 45-minute exercise class, and their fitness is assessed three times per year against their baseline test.

Many studies have shown that regular exercise allows seniors to improve their health and regain control of their daily living activities, according to a statement from Creekside. Live 2 B Healthy has proven just that, showing improvements in participants' balance, sleeping and eating habits, improved cognitive skills, reduced medication and a reduced number of falls.

Participants look forward to the next fitness testing day to see the proven results of their hard work and dedication. The residents have witnessed various health benefits and enjoy the opportunity to socialize in a fun atmosphere, according to Creekside officials.

Creekside is offering the program to everyone in the community. Any Pleasanton-area senior who would like to join the class should contact Kym G. Peck at 417-0589. The classes are free. ■ the Anschutz Health and Wellness Center in Colorado.

"He says to cut 100 calories from your daily meals and add 2,000 steps — that way, it is easy to do," Sutton explained. "It's one of my favorite pieces of advice. He focuses on a doable thing."

Suski remarked how easy it is to spend an hour or two walking with others each Saturday morning — plus it gives her a sense of community. Newcomers are made to feel welcome.

"We have been averaging 15-20 walkers each Saturday," Long said. "At times, we have had three generations of families walking with us, from babies in strollers through grandparents."

Long emails a weekly newsletter that lists each week's destination to more than 600 subscribers.

"Several people have said they read about new places and see pictures that inspire them to go exploring on their own," Long said.

Recently 18 walkers joined the group to explore a section of the Arroyo Mocho Trail in Livermore that has fish ladders — structures that allow migrating fish to pass over obstacles.

"There is always more to learn about our area," Long said.

The walks are led by volunteers that Long calls "Walk Stars," who include Karl Aitken, Charlene Lam, Larry Nova and Bob Pratt.

Dolores Bengtson, former head of Pleasanton's parks department, also leads walks, sharing stories about the creation of the parks and insights about the flora and the fauna, Long said.

"We had 142 walkers for the Halloween visit that Dolores had for the cemetery," Sutton said, remarking this was the most who had ever joined the walk. "We had three once in the driving rain. That was the fewest we ever had."

The group walks, rain or shine, unless "the rain is blowing sideways."

The weekly walks are mostly in and along Pleasanton parks and trails, but the group has also explored destinations in Dublin, Livermore, Sunol, Danville and even San Francisco. Walkers often have brunch together after the walks at local restaurants, including the Stable Cafe at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

Four times a year, Nancy and Gary Harrington lead guided tour of local public art, much of it donated to the city by them. The art includes sculptures, murals and decorated bus stops and utility boxes.

"What a wonderful community we live in," Long remarked.

To request the free weekly e-newsletter, email walks@WorldWalkToWellness.org. ■

Next walks

Saturday Two walks are planned for tomorrow: Art Walk South with Nancy and Gary Harrington, starting at City Hall parking lot, 9-11 a.m.; Centennial Park to the eastern end of the Marilyn Murphy Kane Trail, 8:30-9:30 a.m.

April 15: Kottinger Park, with optional no-host brunch afterward at Stable Cafe (Alameda County Fairgrounds Gate 12). Walk begins at 8:30 a.m.

April 22: Shadow Cliffs Regional Recreation Area, walk led by Dolores Bengtson, 8:30-10:30 a.m.

Lose 48 pounds? Here's the strategy

This man stuck to his healthy plan for a year

You've probably seen all the articles about weight loss, including those that explain how to count calories or what foods you should and shouldn't eat.

But if you're still having trouble losing weight, then maybe you just need a better "strategic plan," one you can put into action before you get that unwanted call from your doctor that your weight is affecting your health.

Monte

Morris received that wake-up call from his doctor, who diagnosed him as obese, along with stage 2 hypertension. At just 38 years old, with a 2-year-old daughter, Morris was a candidate for a heart attack.

Mike Roussell, nutrition adviser to Men's Health Magazine, said that Morris put a strategic plan into place, using five key strategies to achieve lasting success, and they can be effectively implemented by anyone.

Make a decision to change

"I have never seen someone lose weight and keep it off unless they had an emotionally driven reason to change their life," Roussell said. "Monte was no different. He had a little girl, and a trip to the doctor delivered him the news that he had stage 2 hypertension (an advanced form of high blood pressure). On top of that, he just felt lousy. Monte knew he couldn't go on living like this and he made the decision to change his lifestyle for good, not just for him but for his daughter, too."

Monte Morris "before," when his doctor diagnosed him as obese, along with stage 2 hypertension. Monte Morris after losing 48 pounds in a year.

Attack weight loss on multiple fronts

Small steps and changes to what you are eating are important, but you need to rethink your whole lifestyle, envisioning who you want to be, according to Roussell.

"Monte started to change his eating habits and started exercising. Embracing multiple healthy habits like diet and exercise is a great way to get momentum with your weight loss, ensuring that you get better results, which will keep you motivated and doing more," Roussell said.

"Focus on one to two diet changes and be deliberately active with your life. Monte didn't even own a pair of running shoes when he started running and now he runs several miles a week. What kind of activity do you like to do? What the activity is at first doesn't matter, just get moving," he added.

Stop drinking your calories

After Morris made his decision to change his life and put his health first, he did a quick audit of his diet and realized that a simple place for him to cut calories was beer.

"Calories you consume in beer, wine or sugar sweetened drinks (energy drinks, soda, even sports drinks) are easy calories to cut out. Make sure nothing enters your mouth that doesn't support your goal of weight loss while adding beneficial nutrients to your diet," Roussell said.

Be a mindful eater and strategic snacker

Morris steered away from fad diets that demonized certain food groups while exalting others. Instead he focused on eating unprocessed foods and veered away from fast food joints.

"Monte says he couldn't say no to his mid-meal hunger pangs and would grab a fast food meal, which is all too often the fast track to weight gain. His strategy to correct that behavior was to keep a snack of pistachios in his truck and at his desk. Their flavorful crunch satisfied him while the protein, fiber and healthy fats in them kept him full — and out of the fast food drive-thru," Roussell said.

Embrace what you love

"Monte enjoys chocolate, but he recognized candy bars weren't going to help him lose the weight. His solution was to make his own trail mix that contained pieces of dark chocolate along with pistachios and natural dried fruits, like raisins. This strategy satisfied his cravings so he wasn't feeling deprived, but he also wasn't consuming too much sugar," Roussell said.

Successful long-term weight loss takes time. It took Morris almost a year to lose 48 pounds, but once he decided to make the change, he worked at it every one of those 365 days. Taking charge of his health has left him 10 pounds lighter than when he was in high school and with more energy and vibrancy for life than ever before.

Roussell focuses on transforming complex nutritional concepts into practical nutritional habits that his clients use to ensure permanent weight loss and long lasting health. He holds a doctorate in nutrition from Pennsylvania State University. In addition to being an author and an adjunct assistant professor at Penn State, Roussell serves on the advisory board for Men's Health and SHAPE magazines as well as Livestrong.com. ■

Mayo scores overtime winner to propel AVHS girls lacrosse

Foothill baseball sweeps Livermore schools before spring break

After beating Dublin last Friday night, the Amador Valley girls lacrosse team ventured up to El Dorado Hills to take on an always-tough Oak Ridge team on Saturday.

The two teams battled throughout, with the Dons pulling out a thrilling 12-11 overtime win. Bella Mayo scored the game-winner for the Dons, sending the Amador sideline and supporters into celebration.

Kylie Racer, Sadie Grozier, Mady Sweeney, Catherine Murphy, Gracie French and Anna Ford all played well for the Dons.

Granada's run was unearned and came in the first inning. From there, the pitchers took over. Anthony Steller Harter (5-1/3 innings, five strikeouts) and Caton (1-2/3 innings) continued their outstanding seasons.

On offense, Foothill took the lead with two runs in the second inning and tacked on three more in the sixth. Standouts were Justin Lavell (2-for-3), Sam Novitske (2-for-3), Jue (2-for-4) and Hansen (triple and two RBI).

Foothill tennis

Foothill headed into the spring break with a pair of wins, beating Dublin 8-1 and California 6-3.

Adam Linette, Shreekar Eedara, Alex Yang, Andrew Kwon, Dylan Weiglein and Tanmay Gandhi each won two matches this past week.

Six players on Foothill are either freshmen or sophomores, leaving the future of Foothill tennis looking strong.

Basketball camps

Foothill has announced its schedule for the Blue and Gold Basketball Camps this summer.

The Blue and Gold Camps will aim to develop basketball players in all aspects of their game. Sessions will focus on offensive skills, defensive fundamentals and overall knowledge of the game. Players will leave with a better understanding of how to develop their own skill set as well as building offensive and defensive team principles.

The camps are open to both boys and girls entering sixth through ninth grade. Contact head coach Jason Wallis with questions, jwallis@cv.k12.ca.us.

The camps run 8:30-10:30 a.m. Mondays through Thursdays from June 12 to July 13, except for the week of Independence Day when there is no July 4 session but a Friday session July 7 is added. ■

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: IRENE OLIVE NOLAN aka IRENE O. NOLAN Case No.: RP16824652 To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of IRENE OLIVE NOLAN, also known as IRENE O. NOLAN, also known as IRENE NOLAN. A Petition for Probate has been filed by: MARCENE MARTIN in the Superior Court of California, County of ALAMEDA. The Petition for Probate requests that: MARCENE MARTIN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held on MAY 2, 2017 at 9:30 a.m. in Dept.: 202 of the Superior Court of California, County of Alameda, located at 1210 Martin Luther King Jr. Way, Berkeley, CA 94704. If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58 (b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
