Vocabulary Bingo

The Graveyard Book by Neil Gaiman (1st edition)

Purpose: The purpose of this strategy is to engage students in reviewing their vocabulary words in a fun way. The students are exposed to the words and definitions twice throughout the activity, once when choosing the words they want on their bingo cards and once when the teacher calls the definition out loud.

Context: The Graveyard Book has a lot of big words that can be confusing for students, so it is important to give the students as many opportunities to engage with the vocabulary. Use this activity after you have already introduced the vocabulary words to the students, but before you have finished the novel.

Step 1: Give each student a bingo card (if you would like to re-use the cards, have them laminated and give the students erasable markers to write on them with). Read the vocabulary words with the definitions and have the students fill in the blanks on their bingo card with the vocabulary words.

Step 2: After the cards are prepared read only the definition out loud. It will be the students' responsibility to find the corresponding vocabulary word. The students will then place some kind of token on their cards to signify that they found the matching word.

Step 3: Once a student gets bingo, have them call out which words they have covered on their card. Verify that the words they have are correct. If they have words that are incorrect figure out where they went wrong and then continue to call out vocabulary definitions.

Assessment: As the students are marking their bingo cards, observe the students. Students should be able to successfully find the correct word on their card to correspond with the given definition. It will be easy to identify which words students are struggling with as you observe the class. It will also be apparent if students read off incorrect word choices from their bingo card. This will help in to determine which words students need to practice more.

Kara Allen, BYU, 2009

Vocabulary Bingo for The Graveyard Book

Teacher Vocabulary List

1. Culmination: (n.) the act of reaching or completing the highest point or degree; climax
2. Unperturbed: (adj.) calm and serene; unruffled
3. Tousled: (adj.) disordered or disheveled
4. Ignorant: (adj.) lacking in knowledge or training
5. Unappetizing: (adj.) not appealing in appearance, aroma, or taste
6. Obvious: (adj.) easily seen, recognized, or understood
7. Remarkably: (adj.) worthy of notice or attention
8. Devour: (v.) to swallow or eat up hungrily or ravenously
9. Extravagant: (adj.) spending much more than is necessary or wise
10. Mausoleum: (n.) a stately and magnificent tomb
11. Tendrils: (n.) a threadlike, leafless organ of climbing plants, often growing in spiral form, which attaches itself to or twines round some other body, so as to support the plant
12. Valuables: (n.) articles of considerable value, as of personal property
13. Rummage: (v.) to search thoroughly or actively through a space by moving around, turning over, or looking through contents.
14. Suppress: to put an end to, to withhold, or to stop an activity, person, group, or release of information.
15. Impulse: (n.) sudden, involuntary tendency prompting one to action
16. Disadvantage: (n.) absence or deprivation of opportunities favorable to success or equality
17. Insignificant: (adj.) unimportant, trifling, or petty
18. Elaborate: (v.) to add details to; expand
19. Ponder: (v.) to consider something deeply and thoroughly; meditate
20. Scrutinize: (v.) to examine in detail with careful or critical attention
21. Vanish: (v.) to disappear from sight quickly
22. Dismiss: (v.) to put off or away from consideration; put aside; reject
23. Treacherous: (adj.) deceptive, untrustworthy, or unreliable
24. Despair: (n.) loss of hope; hopelessness

Kara Allen, BYU, 2009

The Graveyard Book

Vocabulary Bingo

		FREE SPACE

Kara Allen, BYU, 2009